

LA BLANCHE

“For more than eighty years the most used sunscreen product in the world”

La Blanche is very popular for growers all around the world. The reason for this is the simple concept that has proved its efficiency over the years. A simple concept that has been integrated into the sunscreen product to give the grower the best choice in durability. Through these choices you can give your crop the best protection throughout the season. La Blanche is a cost effective solution for greenhouse sunscreen protection.

Compared to other products it is economically feasible to apply several times during the season to achieve optimum crop protection.

La Blanche is sufficiently dense and does not require additives. La Blanche is easy to remove mechanically or by weak acids.

Other benefits are:

- You can dilute this product with water on location. Therefore transporting water is not necessary.
- La Blanche can be stored under a range of temperature conditions.
